...i Lari...

*Ancient figures for a modern civil protection concept
The name is to be traced back to the myth of the Lari, in Latin Lares, ancient Roman deities protectors of the domestic hearth and the family, the first fundamental cell of every society.*

UNIONE NAZIONALE LAUREATI
ESPERTI IN PROTEZIONE CIVILE

Since 2012, due to its characteristics, it has been identified as an organization of national strategic importance and registered in the Central List of National Civil Protection Organizations at the Civil Protection Department of the Presidency of the Council of Ministers.

The strength that differentiates Lares volunteers from any other association is the specific background referred to study activities and experiences directly related to forecasting, prevention and emergency rescue activities, which makes them capable, flexible and ready for any situation that requires coordination and specific technical-social skills

The university civil protection network

passion, dedication, knowledge, experience

The Association works, with projects and events, to promote a network of academicians, from different universities that deal with civil protection.

Following its vocation regarding the dissemination of the culture of civil protection, Lares aims to act as a link between different experiences, which develop from different study curricula, in order to create a university network that allows young people to understand in depth what the role of their figure in the national system can be, thus promoting the formation of active citizenship.
